

From the Desk of Shane McGoey

Director of Development

“College days are swiftly passing . . .” This time of year always brings back fond memories of my last semester at IUP. The long four years of studying seemed like it went by so quickly, but much of that could be attributed to my Chapter Brothers who made my last semester very enjoyable.

My Chapter Brothers provided support, comic relief, friendship, and memories that we still talk about today. What other organization can do that? As we enter the graduation months for colleges and universities around the country, I would encourage you to take a moment and remember those fond memories; to share them with Undergraduate Brothers from your chapters today. The value of our Fraternity is the lifelong bond we share from our experiences and beliefs. The commitment to our longevity will ensure that future Brothers can share in that same set of experiences and beliefs.

Best wishes to the Class of 2011! Network with your Graduate Brothers as you begin your life experiences. Their collective wisdom will help you greatly.

All the Best!
